In Loving Memory
Of My Son
Christopher Porter
1982 - 2005

You were born a wild boy with the devil in your eye
Now as you leave us we are left to softly cry
From when you were a wee boy you drove us round the bend
We wondered when your cheekiness was ever going to end
Your language it was colourful from the tender age of four
We couldn't help but laugh and encourage you even more
We will remember you running wild up and down the street
Being a right we nuisance and getting under everyone's feet
Then you were the big man that mesed around on wheels
Any kind either 2 or 4 always making deals
Motorbikes and cars, it's what every guy should like
Nothing made you happier than going crazy on your bike

We where never going to change you or how you lived your life

We worried when you found yourself in trouble and in strife

You where never an angel but we cared for you just the same

And to think we didn't love you would have been such a shame

Why did you have to go just as life was going your way

You where trying hard and we no you wanted to stay

You leave us with the image of your we lad

And as he grows up to be the big man we will tell him of his dad

Please look after him from the skies above

Show him in a special way that you send him all your love

So christopher, give them hell in heaven and show them how its done

Pass out plenty of joints and bottles of buckfast to everyone

It's not meant as disrespect, it's just how we know you would create some fun

Did him upstairs know what he was doing when he wanted back this son

Sadly we have to let you go even though it doesn't seem right

But remember it's not goodbye BIG MAN, it's only just goodnite

This poem was wrote by christopher's cousin Mandy and was read out at christopher's funeral by his cousin sharleen

So are the hearts that love you,
Silent the tears that fall,
Living our lives without you,
Is the hardest part of all,
Missing you is the heartache,
That will never go away,
Not only now at Christmas,
But every single day.

In Loving Memory
Of My Son

The background is a textured, mottled olive-green color. In the upper right quadrant, there are two roses. One is smaller and more tightly curled, while the other is larger and more open, showing its petals. The roses are rendered in a light, almost ethereal tone, blending with the background.

The background of the entire image is a textured, mottled olive-green or taupe color. In the upper right quadrant, there are two roses. The one on the left is a smaller, tighter bud, while the one on the right is larger and more fully bloomed, showing the intricate layers of its petals. The roses are rendered in a slightly darker shade of the background color, creating a subtle, elegant focal point.

My Grief is Like a River

June 7, 2008

Kate, hope you enjoy this as much as I enjoy leaving it:

Remembering Christopher always

My grief is like a river -

I have to let it flow

But I myself determine

Just where the banks will go.

Some days the current takes me

In waves of guilt and pain

But there are always quiet pools

Where I can rest again.

I crash on rocks of anger -

My faith seems faint indeed

But there are other swimmers

Who know that what I need

Are loving hands to hold me

When the waters are too swift

And someone kind to listen

When I just seem to drift

Grief's river is a process

Of relinquishing the past

By swimming in Hope's channels

I'll reach the shore at last

Easter Morn

Easter morn with lilies fair

Fills the church with perfumes rare,

As their clouds of incense rise,

Sweetest offerings to the skies.

Stately lilies pure and white

Flooding darkness with their light,

Bloom and sorrow drifts away,

On this holy hallow'd day.
Easter Lilies bending low in the golden afterglow,
Bear a message from the sod
To the heavenly towers of God

Kate thank you so much for the beautiful Halloween Graphic on Jeremy's site. Somehow this year I do not have the heart for it myself which makes your gift so much more special.

I am laughing as I read the verse written my Mandy and read at Christoper's funeral. Have you ever read about Indigo Children? You may find some things of interest there!

It seems to me sometimes that our children came to learn lessons and also to teach. We have so much to learn from them.

My love and thanks to you for remembering Jeremy xo

To my bruv x ,.....do you know? ov coarse you do lol....anyway,..there have been times when i wanted to post on this page but could not because the tears were streaming down my face. This time is no different, but ive come to understand that my memories (our memories) are for my heart only and thats why it takes so long to do his kind of personal tribute. so with a sore heart n throat its going have to be like that for now..our memories will stay close to my heart for a long time to come.....maybe one day i talk about memories of you without the *****. i so love and miss you christopher xxxxxxxxx

i also have to say here that i promise to do as best i can for your son xxx

Kyle the we man

The Big Man

You where born a wild boy with the devil in your eye

Now as you leave us we are left to softly cry

From when you where a wee boy you drove us round the bend

We wondered when your cheekiness was ever going to end
Your language it was colourful from the tender age of four
We couldn't help but laugh and encourage you even more
We will remember you running wild up and down the street
Being a right we nuisance and getting under everyone's feet
Then you where the big man that mesed around on wheels
Any kind either 2 or 4 always making deals
Motorbikes and cars, it's what every guy should like
Nothing made you happier than going crazy on your bike
We where never going to change you or how you lived your life
We worried when you found yourself in trouble and in strife
You where never an angel but we cared for you just the same
And to think we didn't love you would have been such a shame
Why did you have to go just as life was going your way
You where trying hard and we no you wanted to stay
You leave us with the image of your we lad
And as he grows up to be the big man we will tell him of his dad

Please look after him from the skies above

Show him in a special way that you send him all your love

So christopher, give them hell in heaven and show them how its done

Pass out plenty of joints and bottles of buckfast to everyone

Did him upstairs know what he was doing when he wanted back this son

Sadly we have to let you go even though it doesn't seem right

But remember it's not goodbye BIG MAN, it's only just goodnite

This poem was wrote by christopher's cousin Mandy and was read out at christopher's funeral by his cousin sharleen...

The background of the entire image is a textured, mottled olive-green color. In the upper right quadrant, there are two roses. One is a smaller, tighter bud, and the other is a larger, more open flower with many layers of petals. The roses are rendered in a slightly lighter, more detailed tone than the background, giving them a subtle, embossed appearance.
